The Annual Commencement of the Bellaire Public Schools

THEMES TAKEN FROM THE POETS

Ably handled by the Members of the Class, all of Whom Acquit Themselves with Credit to Themselves and the Schools and Satisfaction to the Audience - Pleasing Music a

The commencement exercises of the Bellaire high school were held in the Elysian theatre, at Bellaire, and that large auditorium was packed, fully 1,200 people being present. The stage was beautifully arranged with tasty and appropriate decorations, the class motto, "Pro Columbia," overhanging the front, beneath which each member of the class stood while rendering his part. The members of the board of education, the superintendent and teachers were all on the stage, and the class formed a half circle, to the centre of of which each member stepped to perform the last of school duties. Notwithstanding the recommenda-tion of the board of education that the preparation and dress for the occasion should be made with modest simplicity should be made with modest simplicity rather than extravagance, there were evidences of rather extravagant preparation in some quarters. However, this was to be expected where sixteen young people were to make the greatest effort of their lives, and there was no harsh criticism heard. Mrs. Bevard, of Cadiz, a lady with a rarely sweet voice, rendered two solos that completely captivated the whole audience, and they showed their appreciation by really vociforous applause. Rev. L. W. Barr, pastor of the first Presbyterian church, offorod prayer.

The class performance was opened with an oration by Miss Pama Bair, entitled "Kindness is Wisdom. There is none in life but needs it and may learn." She did her part well and was heartily encored. heartily encored.

The second was a recitation by Miss Bolen, entitled "The Guardian Augel," and the gentle voice of the splendid reader was clear and distinct through-out and won for her a full share of applause.
Nelson's orchestra here rendered

Applause.

Nelson's orchestra here rendered some lively music, and then Miss Minnie Cohen, in her own inimitable way, delivered an oration, "The rust of the mind is the blight of genius."

The first boy to break the ice was Charley Day, with an oration upon, "The immortal names that were not born to die," and he fully sustained the part of the sterner sex.

Mrs. Bavard gave one of her solos that were so highly appreciated, when Miss Cora Cresap gave a recitation entitled, "The Mystified Quaker" in a pleasing way, and was followed with an oration by Miss Lucy Darby, upon the quotation "Fame is the fragrance of heroic deeds." Right well did she sustain the title. Here followed the novel feature of the class exercise, an oration in German by Fred. Lydecker, with this title: this title:

A blessing on the printer's art! Books are the mentors of the heart. The burning soul, the burdened mind, In books alone companions find.

His voice was strong, his manner easy, and his paper all right.

Miss Mattle Dawson gave a recitation entitled, "The Marble Dream," and she did it wall, after which the orchestra turnished more music.

"By his life alone, gracious and sweet, The better way was shown,"

was the title of Miss Lillie Dickinson's oration, while Harry McKeen delivered a splendid oration upon "Not to be last, make that your aim." Miss Olive Millor gave a piane sole for her part, and was followed by Miss Mary Sanders with an oration entitled "Taste the joy that springs from labor," and then came Earl Shupe with another oration,
"They can because they think they

The post of honor was accorded to William Hoffman, a bright young man, whose oration closed the class exercises. It was entitled:

"O, memories, O, past that is!"

Mrs. Beyard rendered another beautiarra. Beyard rendered another beautiful solo, and Superintendent Jones delivered the diplomas to the class with a brief but pointed address, and the commencement of '93 was over.

Like all of its predecessors, it was a grand occasion and Bellaire people never fail to accord heartiest encouragement by their presence or such accordance.

A Little Sensonable Advice.

A Little Sensonable Advice.

Take plenty of outdoor exercise. It will help you throw off that tired feeling and raise your spirits. Don't over eat—enough is as good and better than a feast. Be careful of your drinking water and always add a little of Klein's Silver Age or Duquesne Ryes. This will keep the digestive organs in good condition and prevent much summer sickness. They are absolutely pure and are for sale by hotels, druggists and desiers generally, at $1 50 and $1 25 per full quart. Headquarters,

SUNDAY OPENING

Commissioners—A Vigorous Protest from Hod, T. R. Carskadon.

Of the World's Fair and the West Virginia

Sin:-West Virginia or St. Clair,

You know the great question before Pilate was, Christ or Barrabbas, the robber, which?

The question now is by what author-World's Fair Commissioner J. W.

try World's Fair Commissioner J. W. Si. Clair presumes to misrepresent the known Sabbath loving people of West Virginia and their unanimously expressed legislative opposition to the desceration of the Lord's day by his championship of the Sunday opening of the World's Fair?

I presume it is well known that the government of the United States, as evidenced by congressional enactment, as well as by its refusal to open its part of the exhibition on the Sabbath, is carnestly opposed to Sunday opening.

These being the facts as to the United States and the state of West Virginia, both opposed to this ungodly crusade against the laws of God and men, the question naturally arises, who Commissioner St. Clair represents when he champions that which the state and nation from whom he received his appointment as commissioner both. tion from whom he received his ap-pointment as commissioner both oppose?

It can be neither of these.

Will he fall back upon the hypocritical plea of the local managers that it is to benefit and Christianize the poor laboring man of Chicago? If so, won't their humanitarian generosity and brotherly feeling impel them to free admission to the poor on Sunday?

All this whining cant about caring for the poor laboring man is bosh, and as the gentleman from Lincoln said of such another subterfugo before the West Virginia legislature, it is "too rotten thin."

rotten thin. His action is a base misrepresentation of the earnest, honest convictions of an overwhelming majority of the God hon-oring, law abiding Sabbath loving peo-ple of West Virginia. Ever since the Intelligencen's bold exposure of the commission's singular and modern way of quieting the Register's opposition and the speedy exhoneration of the colone's section, by the retired commission. action by the national commission, it has been evident that he is whooping it up for the financial gain of the fair np for the financial gain of the fair managers without regard to any moral interests of individuals, states or nation.

I see from the press reports of last Sunday's opening the inference is given out that but for the fact that West Virginia exhibits were incomplete they would have been open, too. I trust this is a mistake. After the action of our state legislature in voting against Sunday opening and like unanimous vote of the West Virginia Farmers' Alliance as rebresented in national alliance, and as represented in national alliance, and all the leading Protestant churches of the state and nation, I think the open-ing of our state exhibition on Sunday would be a shame and disgrace and bring upon our state commissioners the just contempt and deserved censure of a large majority of their constituents and the batter citizonship of our state.

Respectfully yours,

T. R. Caiskadon.

Decoration Day at Sand Hill.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer.

SAND HILL, June 1.—Memorial day. was grandly observed here, the people turning out en masse. At 2 o'clock p.
m. Jno. A. Logan post, G. A. R., fell into line in front of the school house, as also did the Sons of Veterans and Sunday school children and with a drum corps in the lead, started for the M. E. cemetery. Upon entering all marched to the center and formed into two semi-circles,
the audience making an entire circle.
The choir then rendered "America," after which Chaplain A. Turner offered prayer, and the solemn rites of the Grand Army of the Republic were then conducted by Commander N. T. Bruce and his aides—with W. H. Dougherty as master of ceremonies, after which the graves were all beautifully decorated with flowers. The large audience then repaired to the church, which was beautifully decorated with banners and flags.
The opening piece by the choir, led by turning out en masse. At 2 o'clock p. The opening piece by the choir, led by Prof. C. Marsh, Miss A. Winters presid-ing at the organ, was "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name." Next came ad-Power of Jesus Name. Next came addresses by Revs. Allemong and Chidester and by the Chaplain, after which the children took part, as also did some of the youg ladies. Miss M. Campbell's essay was very fine. The choir then sang "Banner of Beauty," and the "Star Spangled Banner."

The dealings at the stock exchange to-day were characterized by marked depression. Lower prices from london at the opening, the strained condution of banking and commercial credits at the west, and the further exports of gold, added to the boldness of those operating for a decline, and wherever it was supposed that long stock could be reached an attack was made and not without results. The heaviest losses were 6% in Edison Illuminating, 5 in Baitimore & Ohio and Norfolk and West Feint preferred, 4 in Chicago Gas and Manhattan, 3½ in Louisville & Nashville, 2½ in General Edectric and 2 per cent in Rock Island and Lackawanna.
